Introduction

Anti-Semitism continues to be widespread throughout the Arab and Muslim world, with visible manifestations in the print and broadcast media. ADL monitors the media in the Arab and Muslim world on a daily basis, and sheds the light on manifestations of anti-Jewish hate.

In our review of the Arab and Muslim media in December 2003, several common anti-Semitic themes are apparent:

- demonizing of Jews – presenting the Jews as animals with negative implications, such as snakes.

- comparing Jews and Israelis to Nazis, using symbols as swastikas.

- conspiracy theories of Jews wanting to control the world, Jews controlling the Western governments, Jews controlling the world media, Jews owning the world's capital etc.

- over the past few months a common conspiracy theory in caricatures is of Israel directing or controlling the U.S. administration of Iraq.

- illustrating the stereotypical Jew (big nose, black coat and hat, skull cap etc.), along with Jewish symbols as the Star of David and the menorah

All material in this compilation was translated by ADL from the original Arabic or are from English language sources in the Middle East.

Newspapers

"Nobody can ignore the fact that the Zionist lobby has too much influence inside the US Administration in general and the White House and the Congress in particular. Therefore, even naïve people know that the signing by President George Bush of the so-called Accountability Act which provides for the imposition of economic and diplomatic sanctions on Syria was the work of Israel's friends in the Congress and the White House....

It is sure that the supporters of Israel inside the American political circles have been making use of the 9/11 tragic events in New York and Washington by spreading lies and slanders against the Muslims and Arabs. The first thing they did is to fill the heads of their guys in the White House and the Congress that the Muslims and Arabs are terrorists and accused them of launching the said attacks! They also accused all nations that back the legitimate rights of peoples to self-determination and freedom to be 'rouge' or advocates of international terrorism. This is a big lie known to everybody as the same powers and parties that market such slanders are the strongest backers of the occupation forces and war criminals in Israel..."

M. Agha, "Zionist Act", Syria Times, December 15, 2003

Arab Newspapers

Al-Ahram (Egypt) - an Egyptian daily owned by the Egyptian government: the president appoints the editor. He (as the editor of the other government owned dailies, al-Gumhuriyya and al-Akhbar) is given substantial leeway in his editorial practices, assuming he avoids certain "taboos". Al-Ahram is the largest Arabic paper in the world and has established the Al-Ahram Regional Press Institute.

Al-Gumhuriyya (Egypt) – a government daily.

Al-Wafd (Egypt) - Al-Wafd is the main opposition paper in Egypt. The paper criticizes the regime on a wide range of issues - from economy to internal and foreign policy. However, it is important to note that the criticism is on subjects that are allowed by the regime. The paper is one of the most acceptable channels of opposition activism, since the Egyptians see themselves as supporters of freedom of the press, and the paper is supposed to be concrete proof to this idea. Al-Wafd expresses extreme anti-Israel and anti-Semitic views, in articles and cartoons.

Ar-Rai (Jordan) – a government daily; expresses the approaches of the Jordanian regime.

As-Safir (Lebanon) - a Lebanese daily, close to Syria.

Al-Ayyam (PA) – a government daily.

Al-Hayat al-Jadida (PA) – the PA daily.

Al-Quds (PA) – an opposition daily, which does not exceed the government policy.

Al-Watan (SA) – a daily owned by the governor of the 'Asir district.

Ar-Riyadh (SA) - A Saudi daily, one of the four principal Saudi papers (the three others are: al-Madina, al-Jazira and al-Watan). The paper presents a relatively conservative attitude, while emphasizing (as most of the Saudi papers) its praise of the Royal family.

Generally, the Saudi government lays severe limitations on the freedom of press and has a strict censorship, even on the foreign press that enters Saudi Arabia. Since the Saudi press is government-oriented, it concentrates on praising the Saudi Royal Family. Of course, opposition or independent newspapers do not exist in Saudi Arabia. However, the London based Saudi press has more independent features

Tishrin (Syria) - a state sponsored and owned newspaper, in which the journalists are appointed and instructed by the government (The English-language Syria Times is published by Tishrin as well).

Al-Watan (Qatar) - Al-Watan is one of the five Qatari dailies. Al-Watan's chairman is Hamad bin Sahim al Thani, a member of the royal family (All of the papers are owned by different branches of the royal family). The Foreign Minister, Hamed bin Jasem bin Jaber al Thani, owns half of the newspaper.
