2015: 40
2019: 47
2023: 38

Index of Antisemitic Attitudes

Antisemitic Stereotypes

Major Findings

Political antisemitism is the most common stereotype across Western Europe. In Eastern Europe, we also see economic antisemitism and the perception of Jews as clannish as the most commonly held stereotypes.

Western Europe

Country	Most Common Stereotype	% Agree	Index
Spain	Jews are more loyal to Israel than to this country	56%	26%
Belgium	Jews are more loyal to Israel than to this country	46%	22%
Germany	Jews are more loyal to Israel than to this country	44%	12%
Netherlands	Jews are more loyal to Israel than to this country	38%	6%
France	Jews are more loyal to Israel than to this country	37%	15%
UK	Jews are more loyal to Israel than to this country	34%	10%

Eastern Europe

Country	Most Common Stereotype	% Agree	Index
Poland	Jews are more loyal to Israel than to this country	62%	35%
Hungary	Jews have too much power in the business world	58%	37%
Ukraine	Jews have too much power in the business world	53%	29%
Russia	Jews don't care what happens to anyone but their own kind	44%	26%

Major Findings: Significant antisemitic prejudices even in countries with low index scores

While the trajectory in Index Scores is mixed in Europe, significant percentages still agree with harmful stereotypes. For example, there is significant political and economic antisemitism in the countries with the lowest Index Scores.

% Agree: Jews have too much power in the business world.

Netherlands	UK	Germany	France
18%	18%	17%	28%

% Agree: Jews are more loyal to Israel than to this country

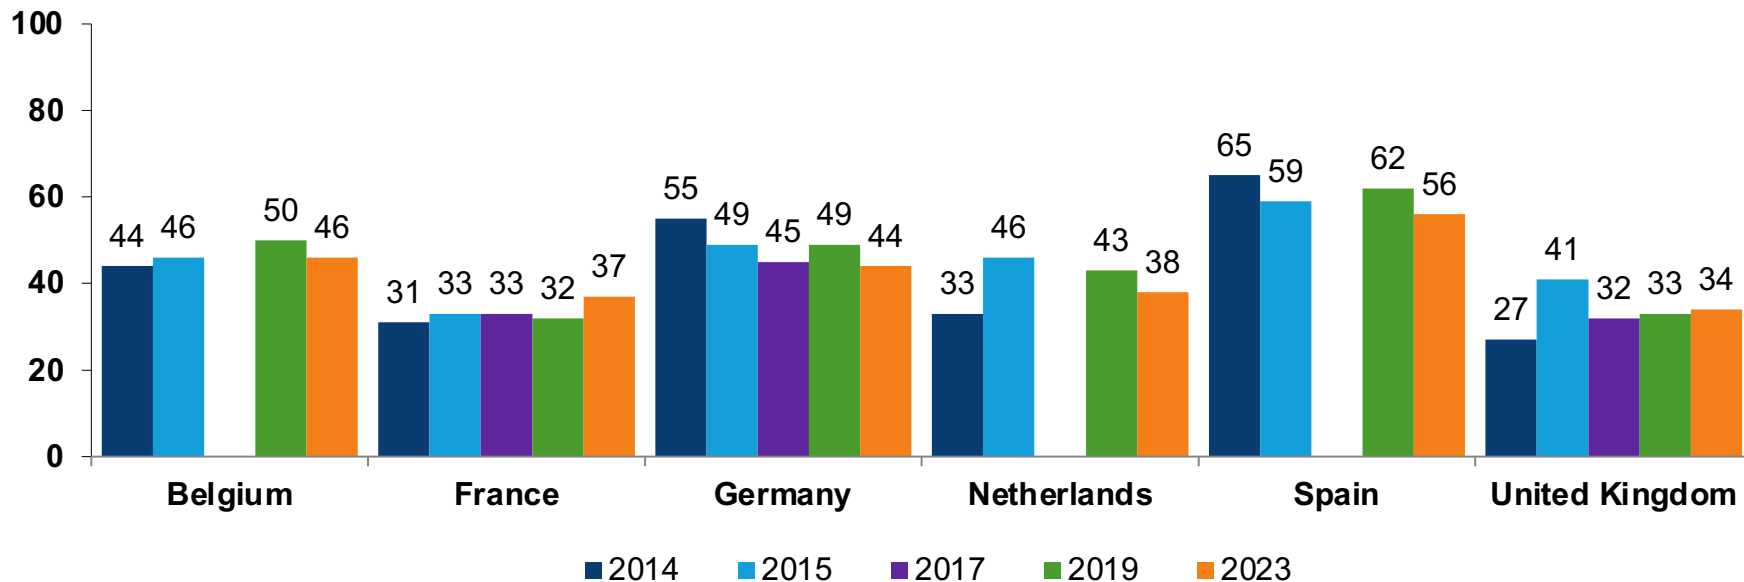

Netherlands	UK	Germany	France
38%	34%	44%	37%

In Western Europe, dual loyalty with Israel is the most commonly-held antisemitic stereotype

Western Europe: Jews are more loyal to Israel than to [this country]

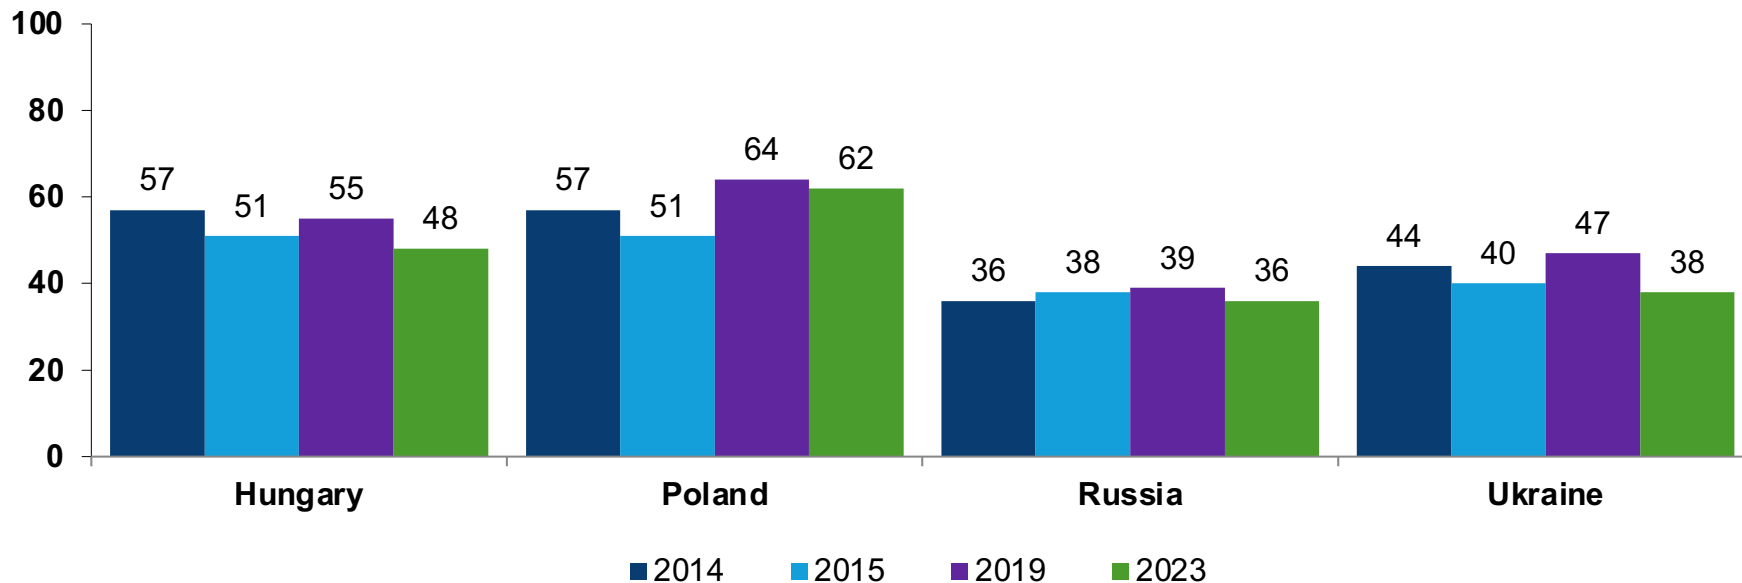

% Probably True

Political antisemitism is also prevalent in Eastern Europe

Eastern Europe: Jews are more loyal to Israel than to [this country]

% Probably True

Major Findings: We see antisemitism across the political spectrum in Europe (though higher on the right)

In Europe, Index Scores tend to be higher on the political right than the political left, but there are a significant number who harbor antisemitic views across the political spectrum.

Western Europe →	18%	14%	25%
Eastern Europe →	28%	28%	42%

Major Findings: High concern in Western Europe over right-wing violence

There is high concern over right wing violence in Western Europe. Countries with more concern about far-right violence tend to have lower Index Scores.

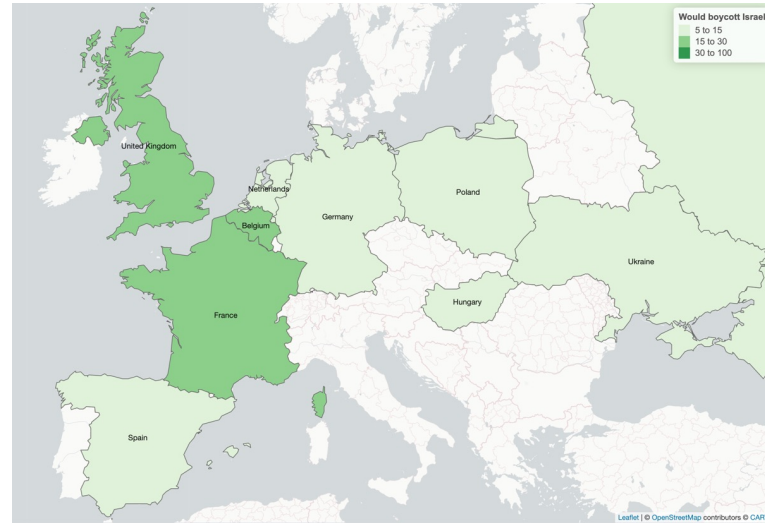

Countries further to the top have higher concern over right-wing violence.

Countries further to the right have higher Index Scores.

Major Findings: Opposition to BDS across Europe

While many Western European countries say they sympathize more with Palestinians than Israelis, support for boycotting Israel is very low.

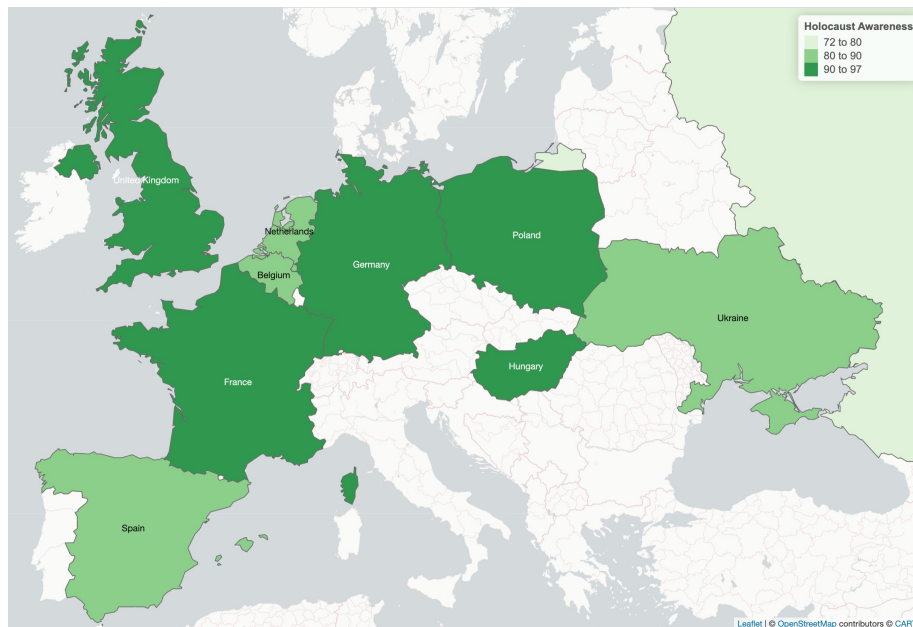

THE HOLOCAUST

Geographic Comparison

Holocaust awareness is virtually universal across Europe

Have you heard about the Holocaust in Europe during World War II?
